A Novelty Attraction.
If a wholesome, honest, cleanly play that alternates pathos and laughter with gaudy fun, rapid fire, and that the goers want, they will not fail to see the great Western Comedy Drama, "The Angel of the Trail" at Norway Opera House, Saturday, Nov. 23.
It is somewhat different from the ordinary Western plays and advantageous.
Up-to-date musical numbers are interpolated and vaudeville features introduced, making an attraction that is bound to suit all tastes. Everyone that is interested in the coming Presidential election should hear the great campaign song "Fall In and Follow Me" especially arranged for this production. No matter what your politics are it will hit you right. The play itself is cleverly written and has been pronounced equal to "The Girl of the Golden West." Popular prices will prevail.

Democratic Celebration.

The appointed time, Wednesday evening, Nov. 20, arrived for the democratic celebration. The evening was a perfect one, the temperature being just about the freezing point and favorable for marching purposes.
At 7.45 the procession formed at the head of Main street and about three hundred joined in the parade, carrying lighted torches. Major E. F. Bradbury acted as marshal and rode a white steed followed by four aides, Harry Spiller, Fred Hosmer, Tony Young and Guy Emory.
Next came the band which furnished the music and was composed of all the musicians in town, including Lumley Castle band, High School orchestra, Norway band and several file and drum corps.
The parade started over the bridge, passed down Water street, down Bridge, down Main beyond Steep Falls bridge, back down Fair street, down Alpine, Tucker, up Neal, through Cottage and back to the Opera House, and was followed by a large crowd.
Many of the houses enroute of the parade were well illuminated, as well as many off the main line. Many of the windows held vast rows of candles and among the brightly illuminated houses noticed were George A. Brooks', James Shedd's, Jackson Clark's, Mrs. Amasa Robbins', A. S. Kimball's, Advertiser office, Dr. B. F. Bradbury's, C. N. Tubbs', Forrest McDaniels', Mrs. Jennie Young's, Mrs. Lillian Foster's and in fact nearly all the houses in the lower part of the village showed signs of illumination.
As the parade marched to the music of the band, red fire and Roman candles were in evidence along the way and presented a pretty spectacle against the darkness of the night. The celebration was one of dignity and reserve and proved a very successful affair.
After the line of march was completed a good sized audience gathered at the Opera House to witness the speaking.
A. S. Kimball was the speaker of the evening and in opening his address said he should not talk at length as it was late and the people were undoubtedly tired after the long march. He stated he was glad to see so many interested in the celebration, whether members of the party or not, and felt that the celebration had been in the spirit of thanksgiving and not of praise.
Government is founded on principles of rights to all, and special rights to none, and men and women should have just compensation for all services rendered. A system has grown up and great sums accumulated by a few men, a fact which was never intended by the founders, and our party declares this tariff system wrong.
He spoke of the merits of Wilson and Marshall, being men of great ability and was glad they are elected to the presidency for all of this broad republic and for all the people and stated that the country had been wandering in darkness and he was glad that it had come to itself. He closed his address in behalf of the committee for participating in the celebration which had proved so successful.

THE NORWAY ADVERTISER

(OXFORD COUNTY, ME.)

Co. D Notes.

The Company has decided to present a drama at the Norway Opera House, Jan. 29. It is intended to procure for this purpose an up-to-date play, which may necessitate the payment of a royalty. The cast will be made up of the best home talent procurable.
The Norway Opera House has been secured for the night of March 4, on which night it will present its annual drill and ball.
In future the Company clerk should find his work greatly simplified since the members have voted to buy a typewriter, as recommended by the adjutant general.
The purchase of a pool table, to be placed in the Non-Com's room, has been authorized. It is thought that this will be an extra inducement for the men to attend drills, shoots, etc. The Company commander intends to hold a shoot in the gallery every other Monday evening, and since only a limited number may shoot at one time the remaining men can very satisfactorily entertain themselves playing pool. It is the ruling that members only may play on the Company table.
Many of the members are wondering if the time will ever come when the Company will be provided with a suitable armory. When business meetings are held with a fair attendance the many of the men have to stand on the stairs, there being insufficient space for all in the main room.

Kewley spoke on our responsibility for the morals of our children, and each concluded that they are due to the combined responsibility of the home, the church and the school. Those in charge of the entertainment, were Mrs. George Burnham, Sara Sweet, Mrs. Maurice Noyes and Mrs. Iva Morton.
After the program, a social followed, and refreshments of ice cream, cake and fancy crackers were served and were in charge of Mrs. Lucy Edwards, Helen Chapman, Mrs. Ada King, Katherine Morton, Mrs. Annie Sweet, Eva Walker, Mrs. Sarah Edwards and Flora Murch.
Those in charge of the reception were Mrs. A. T. McWhorter, Mrs. E. E. Chapman, Mrs. George Morton, Mrs. George B. Churchill and Mrs. Lucella Morton; and the general committee composed of Mrs. T. M. Davis and Mrs. Eva Orway.
The idea of holding socials for the parents and teachers has been carried out for several years, and has proved very helpful.
Mrs. Grace Brown and two children of Caribou are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stuart.
Leona Stuart, who has been spending a number of weeks with friends in Boston and vicinity, returned home Friday night.
T. J. Corby of Massachusetts has taken Ralph Edwards place at F. W. Walker's bakery. Mr. Edwards has gone to Dixfield, where he has opened a bakery.
The goods of C. W. Clarke's harness store have been sold out and the business cleared up. Walter Gray has been in charge.
W. L. Pratt and W. H. Bray, who have been spending the past two months at the West Surplus in Andover, returned home, Tuesday, each bringing a fine deer.
Thursday evening the Delta Alphas will hold a social at the vestry of the Methodist church. The hostesses are Mildred Parlin, Sara Sweet, Ben Tribben. Several new members will be initiated.
A supper and entertainment will be given Tuesday evening at the Deering Memorial church by the Junior Epworth League. The supper will be served at 6.45, followed by the entertainment, which will consist of music and recitations.
ALBANY.
A Shiden Death.
Herbert Wheeler, only son of John Wheeler, died suddenly. He was a young man of good habits, very industrious and took a great interest in raising good stock. He was cutting turnip tops in the barn with his father. He is reported to have been at his seat, and at once dropped off of his seat, and passed away almost instantly. He was lately married to Miss H. Zelton of North Albany.
Mrs. A. G. Bean is visiting friends and relatives in Lewiston.
Frank Bean of Oxford is stopping with his father a few days.
Raymond Cummings has gone up to Mason to work in the woods for Ernest Morrill.
A large portion of the apples are shipped away in this vicinity. D. A. Cummings loaded the last car at Bethel, Nov. 13.
Albion L. Cummings, who is running on the Boston & Albany railroad, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Cummings. He could only stop three nights.
Guy Cummings has finished packing apples over to North Norway and is talking of going to Bryant Pond to work, turning dowels.
EAST BETHEL.
Shot in Getting from Boat.
A sad accidental shooting occurred at East Bethel, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 16th, causing the death of Paul J. Whitehead, a young man of 19 years, who was working for Elmer Trask.
Mr. Whitehead in company with Mr. Trask was returning from a deer hunt across the river by a small boat near the Bean ferry. In getting from the boat, his gun, loaded with buckshot, was accidentally discharged, one shot taking effect near the heart, his hand, arm and shoulder being badly injured. He fell backwards and died in a few minutes.
His mother, Mrs. G. N. Gleason, was visiting him at the time of the fatal shooting. He was taken to Easton, Aroostook county, Monday, the 18th, funeral services and burial being held Tuesday, Nov. 19. Besides his mother he leaves one brother, Donald Whitehead, of Cambridge, Mass.
Cottoner H. A. Packard was called but no inquest deemed necessary.
He was a young man of marked qualities and well educated. He left the city of a choice he said to live and work in the country, where he had made his home with Elmer Trask and family for some time.
SOUTH OTISFIELD.
Fletcher Scribner is gaining slowly. E. B. Jillean and wife have gone to Waterville visiting his sister.
School closed the 17th taught by Lillian Jordan, a very successful term.
Mrs. Josephine Tenney has finished work for a while for George Jillean. Lillian Jordan and his mother spent Saturday night and Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Irving Plummer of Raymond.
The schools of Norway and Waterford will not be in session for Friday of Thanksgiving week. This seems advisable in order that various teachers may return to their homes for Thanksgiving.

May Prove Fatal.

When Will Norway People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first;

But if you flud 'tis from the kidneys;

That serious kidney troubles may follow;

That dropsy or Bright's disease may be the fatal end.

You will be glad to know the following experience.

'Tis the honest statement of a resident of this locality.

Hiram Lovejoy, Myrtle street, South Paris, Me., says: "I suffered for five years from backache. There would be days at a time when my sudden move caused added pain. The excursions from my kidneys were too frequent in passage and my rest was broken at night. I lost health and strength and felt badly discouraged. When a member of my family asked me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and began to improve at once. It was not long before my kidneys were normal."

Children's Column.

Bethel, Maine, Nov. 11, 1912.

DEAR EDITOR:—My school closes this week, and I am glad, therefore, to have singing in the school the last day. I am a little girl ten years old. I live on a farm. We have 20 hens now. This is my Sunday verse and a song:

Hear my prayer O Lord,
And keep me in all my ways,
Amen.

"We come, Lord, to thy feast,
On this thy holy day;
Oh, come to us while here we meet
To learn and praise and pray."

Morning Gifts.
A little bird sang his glad sunrise song;
A flower gave its sweetness the morning long.
The sunbeams brought, daylight clear and bright,
And the world was a pleasant place.

A little boy said, "I'm bigger than they,
So of course I've something to give to the day.
For I love the day with its work and play."
So he brought a happy day.

Memory Verse.
"All that the Lord hath spoken will we do and be obedient."

Some of God's Laws.
And God spoke to all this world saying:
I am the land of Egypt; out of the house of bondage.
Thou shalt have no other gods before me.
Thou shalt not make unto thee a graven image.
Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.
Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.
Honor thy father and thy mother.
Thou shalt not steal.
Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.
Thou shalt not covet.

BLANCHIE ELLEN KIMBALL.

A Dream Journey.

The Moon-mist Queen came down one night
To see the land of a Silvery Star.
To see "Little Boy" if he'd care to go
On a byway trip afar.

He sat cuddled up on a small white bed,
Staring with wondering eyes
At the beautiful lady who asked him to go
On a journey up in the sky and stars.

She lent him a pair of gossamer wings
Of shimmering silver and white;
Then, holding his hand, away they sailed
Out into the starry night.

The big round world grew small and dim,
Their harbor was still afar;
When Little Boy sang to look again,
He found his earth a but star.

She gave him a drink from the Milky Way,
In a dipper of silver and blue;
Chained to the sky with links of stars,
Kept cool in morning dew.

A queer old woman who sat on a broom Swiftly passed them by;
"To sweep cobwebs," the Moon-queen said,
"Out of the evening sky."

They were going to visit the Man in the Moon,
When they sank in a cold, damp cloud.
The beautiful lady disappeared,
And Little Boy cried aloud.

With wet wings limp, he began to fall
Into dark and bottomless space;
A star came whirling and lit his fall,
And dared Little Boy to race.

He steadily fell on—down, down, down;
The wind blew through his hair;
His teeth were chattering with fright and cold,
And he gasped for a breath of air.

He quite forgot what came between
The moon and his awful roar.
When Mother, coming softly in,
Lifted him from the floor.

She gently soothed his frightened cries,
And kissed his poor bumped head,
Wiped Little Boy's sleepy tears away,
And tucked him into bed.

And in the morning when he awoke—
The sun laughed down at him!

What to have Thanksgiving.

How shall the merriment of Thanksgiving be arranged, and what dishes shall be chosen?

Conditions are so different from those prevailing when the feast was instituted that it is not easy to find the pattern in the place of those pioneer housekeepers, says an exchange. We have such great variety at hand every day in the year that it is difficult to find foods sufficiently unusual for a special Thanksgiving.

In its main features the dinner on this holiday should follow the pattern of those who established the day.

What the goose and mince pie are to the later holiday, the turkey and pumpkin pie are, and should continue to be, to Thanksgiving.

Certain other foods deserve a prominent place at this time, either because they have been associated with this dinner from the earliest celebrations or because they are native Americans; such as cranberries, oysters, potatoes and lard corn.

Soup and salad are not essential parts of a Thanksgiving dinner, but there may be good reasons for serving one or both. The soup may be made of oysters, celery or corn.

The fish course also may be omitted unless there is a local or family reason for its introduction.

There are several forms in which the cranberry may appear at the Thanksgiving feast. The jelly berries are preferred by many. To prepare in this way pick over and wash the fruit; to one quart add a pound of sugar and a cupful of water. Cook rapidly until each berry has cracked open, then put in moulds. When cold, many of the berries will be as round as before cooking, but tender and full of jelly.

Cranberries prepared in this fashion may be used for pies, either baked between two crusts or in one with strips of pastry arranged crisscross on top.

Oysters belong to Thanksgiving according to tradition, because friendly Indians who joined the early celebrations brought gifts of this shellfish. Sometimes the turkey is stuffed with oysters, or they are chopped and added to the crumb stuffing, but a strong flavor is likely to be developed and the oysters become tough and indigestible before the turkey is cooked.

A garnish of fried oysters may surround the turkey instead of the string of little sausages which makes of him, as an old cook-book has it "an alderman in chains." Better yet, a dish of scalloped oysters may accompany the bird.

If in no other place, a preliminary course of raw oysters or oyster soup may appear before the turkey.

Since the early settlers owed so much to Indian corn, that grain in some form should be part of the Thanksgiving dinner. Either brown bread baked in the great pudding was included in the great grandmother's dinner, but her descendants prefer succotash or corn pudding as vegetables.

Squash and onions are the favorite Thanksgiving vegetables in many households. Squash seems to have come to us from the Indians, and was raised by them in the corn fields.

Nuts are yearly becoming more prominent in our diet. The butternut is especially appropriate. Next to the butternut, since it has so firm a hold on the American appetite. Chestnuts are growing in favor.

Teach Oxford County Farmers.

Rockefeller Money Will Send a Few Ex-perts Here for Study and Individual Advice.

Four counties in Maine and one in New York are to receive at once some of the Rockefeller money given to the General Education Board to teach farmers how to farm.

As a beginning for the demonstration planned, $1500 has been appropriated for St. Lawrence County in New York, and $8000 for Washington, Kennebec, Oxford and Cumberland counties in Maine. Under the direction respectively of the State Agricultural School at Canton, N. Y., and the State Agricultural College at Orono, Me., these funds will be used to send expert teachers to individual farmers. Each expert will study a particular farm and the farmer's methods, tell him what to do to his soil, what crops to raise, and how to raise better and more.

There have been colleges in New England for 40 years to teach the very things Mr. Rockefeller has set aside $8000 to do in a district of Maine.

Because of the Rockefeller beneficence many agricultural colleges were communicated with in respect to the proportion of graduates they had sent to the farms to put scientific husbandry into practice. The general result indicated that 45 per cent. or thereabouts of the graduates from agricultural courses are practicing some form of farming or utilizing farm products, or in teaching in agricultural schools and colleges, or in government agricultural departmental work. Included in this 45 per cent. are those engaged in butter, cheese and sugar factories and in canneries which utilize farm products.

Maine Makes Good Showing.

The inquiry from the headquarters in New York, as to conditions in the Maine agricultural college department of the University of Maine, brought the following information:

Commissioner Buckley of the department of agriculture, State of Maine, writes: "We have at Orono, the University of Maine, and connected with it is our State Agricultural College; the State appropriates about $35,000 per year for the running of this college. We have several other sources of agricultural education in different parts of the State that are run in connection with our high and grammar schools."

Farms number 48,000 and a larger percentage of them are unmortgaged than in any other New England State except New Hampshire. In New Hampshire 74 per cent. are clear of indebtedness; in Maine 73 per cent.

According to the latest reports from the Maine College of Agriculture, the percentage of distribution of graduates reported by the dean from the four and two years courses, according to the present application is: Farming, 64; agricultural teaching and experimentation, 12; State and Federal departments agriculture, 4; agricultural editors, 1; total agricultural lines, 83; business, 10; professions, 3; unknown, 2. The dean sent no alumni catalogues, so it is impossible to say how nearly the groupings correspond to those laid out for other colleges as made up by Dean Merrill. It would appear that Rockefeller's money had gone to the State in New England already best taken care of by an agricultural college. Dean Merrill comments: "The greatest needs of colleges of agriculture at the present time are a clear vision and plenty of money. Everywhere students are coming faster than they can be cared for. It is my opinion that one of the greatest needs of New England agriculture is a more definite knowledge concerning the economics of the business. The economic problems are its greatest problems."

BUCKFIELD.

Dr. Wellington Record of Quincy, Mass., Monday from injuries sustained by being run over by a train at Norfolk Downs, Nov. 10th. Dr. Record was born in Buckfield, 59 years ago.

Three local people had a narrow escape Friday evening, in an automobile accident. Ray Jordan, Del Cloutier and Roy Allen were returning from West Summer in Mr. Jordan's Maxwell runabout, when it went over the high embankment at Jack's bridge. Mr. Jordan and Mr. Allen were pinned under the car, but escaped with slight injuries. The car caught fire which exploded the gasoline tank and threw the burning oil over the water for quite a distance. The automobile was totally destroyed.

Health Talks.

By Dr. True

We must trace sickness back to its source. We must ask the question, "Whence comes my sickness?"

My practice as a physician showed that nine-tenths of human sickness, from infancy to old age, comes from stomach or bowels being out of order.

Headaches, tired feeling, nervous depression, weakness, spots before the eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, irritability, dizziness and many other signs of sickness stop if you treat the stomach and bowels right and get them into working order.

Look first to the stomach and bowels. Get them working right and health will be yours.

My prescription, known as Dr. True's Elixir, has done wonders for sick people, because it is the one remedy that you can rely on to get things right in the stomach and bowels.

Costs 35c, 50c and $1.00 and is sold by all druggists, big or little, everywhere. Druggists, as a rule, are very honest. They do not try to substitute something else for Dr. True's Elixir, because they know its value. Many druggists use it for their own families, for children or grown people.

Points About Babies to Remember.

Babies need much sleep, habits of eating and sleeping at the same time each day, and much air and sunshine.

Babies need to be kept warm.

Babies need to be kept clean.

Babies need to be kept simply and warmly dressed.

Babies need clean milk.

Babies need to be nursed by the mother if she can in any way do it.

Babies' food should be prescribed by the doctor, and not by the neighbors. It should not be changed too often.

Milk must be kept cold until wanted, if it is to be good. It must be carefully prepared according to the doctor's directions, says a writer in The Child.

Babies need water to drink.

It is important to know a sick baby from a well one.

Teething is not a sickness.

No pacifiers should be used.

Soothing syrups should not be used.

Castor oil is the safest medicine for diarrhea.

Babies should be kept off the floor, out of draft, and should not be near people who have colds.

Colds, diseases of the digestion and of the breathing system are the sicknesses from which babies suffer most.

A GREAT BUILDING FALLS

when its foundation is undermined, and if the foundation of health—good digestion—is attacked, quick collapse follows. On the first signs of indigestion, Dr. King's New Life Pills should be taken to tone the stomach and regulate liver, kidney and bowels. Pleasant, easy, safe and only 25 cents at The Noyes Drug Store. adv 44 48

The Youth's Companion Window Transparency and Calendar for 1913.

The publishers of The Youth's Companion will, as always at this season, present to every subscriber whose subscription ($2.00) is paid for 1913, a beautiful souvenir. This year it takes the unique form of a Window Transparency, to be hung in the window or in front of a lighted lamp. Through it the light shines as through the stained glass of a cathedral window, softly illuminating the design—a figure of Autumn laden with fruit; and all around, wreathed in purple clusters of grapes and green foliage, is the circle of months. It is the most attractive gift ever sent to Companion readers. adv.

Old Fashioned Husking.

James Kimball had an old-fashioned husking Nov. 8th. A large gathering of neighbors husked a nice lot of corn and when the work was done Mrs. Kimball, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Roy Wardwell, served a fine supper consisting of hot coffee, baked beans, brown bread, puddings, cakes, etc.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Wardwell, piano, Cecil Kimball, violin, Lin. Elliot, banjo; songs were sung, then dancing by all those who wished until the small hours, when all reluctantly went away thanking Mr. Kimball and family for a very pleasant evening, and wishing him a large crop of corn another year and plenty of red ears.

Mrs. Herbert Marston is poorly, caused by gangrene in the foot. Mrs. Marston was obliged to have one toe amputated several years ago and another operation is now considered necessary to save the foot, which will be done soon.

Arthur Millet of Merritt Sawin to Harrison and Walter Lord hauled the rest of them. Mr. Lord also hauled his own and Elmer Healey's. Ernest Grover hauled George Abbott's with Walter Lord's team.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wardwell recently spent the evening at George Abbott's and as they were coming through the woods across from the house to Mr. Abbott's home animal leaped into the path behind them and gave a loud yowl, although it was so dark the sight, whatever it was, could not be seen. It is supposed it was a bobcat, or something of that kind. It is needless to say Mr. and Mrs. Wardwell were somewhat startled.

Last Sunday was observed as Japan Sunday at the Universalist church by a sermon in the morning, on the work of the Universalist missionaries in Japan, and in the evening at the Y. P. C. U. meeting, several papers were read on the Japan mission work, which was very interesting. Mr. E. C. Park gave an excellent talk on our work in Japan and on the general topic of general missionary work, showing how, through the courage and self sacrificing spirit of the missionaries, civilization had progressed the world over, and Christianity was being carried to all parts of the world. A generous collection was taken for the Japan work, representing this local Y. P. C. U. and next Sunday an offering will be by the parish for the same work.

The fact that the principal bulk of freight delivered at Harrison receiving station for transportation to Portland and other markets is furnished by farmers and business men of towns distant from Harrison, suggests forcibly the needs of railroad extension into the town and it is hoped such facilities for heavy transportation of freight and passengers, may be established at an early day. W. S. Carne gave a very helpful sermon last Sabbath. A few of the fine points were as follows: "It is better to find God in the wilderness than not to find him at all. When we pass through the deep waters, when impenetrable clouds obscure the view, when lonely, sad and downcast, it is the crucial time when God is near to uplift and save. If it were not for the sufferings of past ages we could not worship here today. Let us rejoice in sorrows and pain and find the victory of the Christ."

There is a prayer going the rounds on post cards, said to be sent all over the world and that each one who receives one shall write nine postals and send to their friends, that if we comply, we shall on the ninth day, meet with some great pay, but if we pass it by we shall meet with some misfortune. Several years ago the endless chain of letters were condemned by the pulpit and press. They took to much of one's time. These postal prayers cause some people much uneasiness and alarm and there should be some way to prevent their circulation.

The great national election is over and political peace should reign for four years more. While one party can rejoice at the election of Woodrow Wilson and others are of course bitterly disappointed; that the way it must always be and always has been since political parties began. The citizens of this town while they voted as Progressives, Democrats and Republicans, voted we feel very certain for what they believed to be for the best interests of their country. We need to remember that we are all in the same boat with a common interest and destiny. Because people do not see all questions alike

We will sell them for prices that you generally pay for ordinary factory axes.

From one dollar to a dollar and fifty cents, with wedge and handle. Bear in mind that not over one in a hundred will prove bad if given a fair usage, such as was intended by the makers.

Ordinary mechanical intelligence will understand that a tool made to cut iron must have a different bevel than one to cut wood, showing that a bevel suitable to cut pine or spruce easily will not cut, with safety, pine or hemlock knots, which are about as hard as iron and as fatal to a good edge for pine as would be iron.

Our axes are best made at any price.

Constipation and Catarrh

S. S. HARTMAN, M. D.

You are constipated. You have taken laxatives a great many years. You have tried to select a diet that would keep your bowels regular. In this you have failed and were obliged to go back to your laxatives again. This, I say, has been going on many years. You also have a slight catarrh in the head and throat. You never imagined that the catarrh had anything to do with the constipation. Suppose I were to tell you that as long as you have that catarrh you will never get better of your constipation. Would you believe me? Well, whether you would believe me or not it is the truth. For many years I have been wrestling with the problem of furnishing the public an internal cathartic remedy. Peruna has been the remedy that I have devised and it has certainly relieved many thousand people, yes hundreds of thousands of people, of chronic catarrh.

Constipation was my chief difficulty in treating these cases. I often felt that it would be better if a laxative element were added to Peruna. I feared to do so, however, first because of the number of catarrhal patients who needed no laxative, and second I was afraid of making such a radical change in a remedy that was already doing so well. Thus it was that I continued to prescribe with the Peruna a bottle of Mannin to those who needed a laxative. At last, under circumstances explained in my booklet, I was constrained to add the laxative element to Peruna. This constitutes what is now known as the revised Peruna.

Now those who take Peruna will, first, find themselves promptly relieved of their constipation. Second, the catarrh will gradually disappear. And once the catarrh is cured the constipation leaves permanently. Then if you follow the advice given in my book, you will never have to take pills any more. Cathartics and laxatives you can ignore. You will be permanently relieved of both your catarrh and the constipation. PERUNA IS FOR SALE AT ALL DRUG STORES.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons are making inquiries for the old time Peruna. To such would say, this formula is now put out under the name of KA-TAR-NO, manufactured by KA-TAR-NO COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

HON. MELVILLE E. INGALLS

HARRISON.

Famous Railroad Magnate Resigns. Melville E. Ingalls of Cincinnati, O., who has been connected with the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Co. for 42 years, first as president, then as chairman of the board, has resigned the latter place on account of ill health.

Mr. Ingalls was born in Harrison on Sept. 6, 1842, and was trained in the work of his father's farm. He entered Harvard Law School, sleeping at night in the office of a friendly Boston lawyer and eating in cheap restaurants. Mr. Ingalls began his law practice in the town of Gray, but later moved to Massachusetts and located in Boston, where he achieved success. He dabbled in politics and went to the Massachusetts State Senate for one term.

He stepped from his law office into the presidency of a railroad. Some of his Boston clients were stockholders in the Indianapolis, Cincinnati & Lafayette Ry., which became bankrupt. They sent Mr. Ingalls to Cincinnati as receiver, and he made such a success that upon reorganization of the property he was elected president. The small road became later part of the Big Four system.

He has been connected with the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Ry., commonly called the Big Four, for 42 years beginning as president. He resigned the presidency of the road in January 1905 and has since been chairman of the board. He has resigned the latter position on account of ill health and eyes.

He was at one time chairman of the Ohio Chesapeake and Ohio R. R., and has been one of the notable forces in the Vanderbilt enterprises in the Middle West.

His greatest coup as railway president was the formation of the Joint Traffic Association, in which most of the railways east of the Mississippi were pooled. The Supreme Court of the United States broke up this pool by a decision that it violated the anti-trust laws.

Mr. Ingalls has occasionally visited his native town since locating in Ohio, and has many friends here, who will be pained to learn of his declining health.

The Fallen Leaves.

Most of the trees that were a few weeks ago so gorgeously arrayed now stand stripped and bare. It was as if nature wanted to typify human life by giving her utmost of glory only to snatch it away again, so that the contrast might be all the more profound and striking. The ground is carpeted with russet and brown. Few have a notion of the enormous volume and weight of dead foliage which is precipitated upon the bosom of Mother Earth in the process of denuding the forests of their royal garments. It must amount to millions and millions of bushels and hundreds of thousands of tons. In the forests they lie thick at the feet of the uncrowned kings; they gradually decay and form new soil—unless fires get started in their dry and highly combustible masses.

Vast quantities are annually burned under the watchful care of farmers and gardeners, and the spicy odor of the smoke, if it is not too dense, is pleasant to the nostrils; it is one of the signs of autumn. Those who have lawns and like to see them kept neat have a constant battle with the leaves. Rake and brush-broom will clear away the accumulations of a day, but let a strong wind arise and the leaves instantly thrill with the very spirit of mischief.

They will be seen whispering together; soon half a dozen will start up as if alive and run like mice across the shaven grass. As the wind increases thousands of them, like Goths and Huns, will engage in a mad race to see which cohort will first spread itself over the paths and steps. Vast haps of them will accumulate in the corners; they will rush into the flower beds and fill up the hedges. There is no dislodging them except by taking them like fishes by the tail and yawning them out. They love to get into the cracks of the piazza and the broom is useless in sweeping them away. They dance with delight to see one's vexation; they are perfectly conscious of what they are doing.

The man who looks after suburban places drives them as far as he can (after the wind has subsided) into the gutter, and if he is certain that there is no policeman in sight slips a newspaper under one end of the pile and applies a match to them. Then he goes away and lets the fire take its own will. A thin blue smoke rises; little tongues of flame flicker here and there, and presently the whole mass is glowing. In an instant a short space of time nothing is left but gray ashes. If it is not burned, school children passing scuffle through it and scatter it, and then comes the wind again and enters into the conspiracy to make the lawns and grounds once more disorderly and unpleasant.

It is no small delight to scuffle through dry leaves. The crackling, rustling sound has a music of its own. Children or a larger growth will do it if no one is spying on them. It recalls their own youth; all such noises and actions and odors bring back pleasant memories; the autumn is a time of retrospection; it is a sort of old age when the "good old times" seem vivid in memory.

It has a melancholy of its own. It somehow suggests vanished hopes. How many plans have fallen from the tree of your ambition, have turned brown and sere and can only be trampled under foot!

Not wholly melancholy either, for now the early frosts begin to open the chestnut burrs and the leaves cover the delicious nuts—others also, walnuts and butternuts, or as they call them in Maine oil nuts—and the pleasant bitter acorns.

It is the time when the squirrels are setting human beings good, honest examples of providence. One can see them at their work, though the woodlands, hiding away their stores against the winter. They are too busy to play; no longer will two or three gray squirrels chase one another up and down the tree trunks or make loping leaps as they race across the open space. If their harvest time and they feel instinctively that the day is short and the snow will soon be here, when they can no longer gather in their treasures. It is pleasant to hear their patter among the forest leaves. Their big nests stand out in the tree-tops where the foliage was on the branches, they could scarcely be seen.

Beautiful as a full fledged tree is in summer, its beauty when quite bare is not less striking. The fall of the leaves is therefore attended with many lessons and with no little charm.

Smoke Sickle Plug.

You'll like it because it's good, and stick to it because it's best.

Sickle Plug keeps its original flavor and moisture better than smoking tobacco in any other form. The moisture and flavor are pressed in by machinery and kept in by the tobacco leaf wrapper. This natural protection is far better than such aids as cans, bags or other artificial covers.

Just fill your pipe and see.
